Alma Mater

For the glory of old B. C. D. S.,
For her founders strong and great,
For the future that we wait,
Raise the song, raise the song

Sing our love and loyalty,
Sing our hopes, that bright and free,
Rest, O Mother dear, with thee!
All with thee! All with thee!

When we stood at boyhood's gate,
Shapeless in the hands of fate,
Tho didst mold us, dear old B. C. D. S.,
Into men, into men.

May no act of ours bring shame
To one heart that loves thy name,
May our lives help swell thy fame,
Dear old B. C. D. S.! Dear old B. C. D. S.!

...Greetings...

It would be preposterous to assume that our first effort in the literary world is faultless, or to secretly believe that we shall please everyone. Neither of these can we hope to attain. However, if we succeed in giving the reader glimpses of the golden scenes enacted here, or if we can in some way preserve the memories of present-day activities at old B. C. D. S., we shall not have completely failed. Assuring you that we have tried to depict our college life as we see it, and hoping that your criticisms may be of a constructive nature, we invite you to proceed.

Dedication

to

Dr. Wm. B. Finney

Professor Emeritus;

always direct, genial, and co-operative with the students and leader in any movement toward a greater B. C. D. S., the Class of 1921 heartily dedicates this book.

Professor William B. Finney

DR. WILLIAM B. FINNEY, professor of Prosthetic Dentistry at the Baltimore College of Dental Surgery, is one of the foremost dentists of Baltimore. He was born in Accomac County, Va., August 27, 1854, on the plantation of his father, the late Andrew Gordon Finney. He pursued his studies at the Academy of Locustville, Va., and at William and Mary College.

Coming to Baltimore, he acted as bookkeeper for the firm of T. C. Bunting & Co., and later entered the office of Dr. R. B. Winder as a private student, concurrently beginning his studies at the Baltimore College of Dental Surgery. About this time the Maryland Dental College was organized and Dr. Winder was made its Dean. Here Mr. Finney took his second-year course and was graduated, being yet under twenty-one years of age.

After graduation he returned to his home, remaining there one year. He then went to Moorefield, Hardy County, W. Va., where he practiced three years.

In 1878, Dr. Finney was called to accept the position of Assistant Demonstrator of Operative Dentistry at the Baltimore College of Dental Surgery. This and the Maryland Dental College had amalgamated the year previous, adopting the name of the former for the combined institutions.

His diploma from the Maryland Dental College entitled him to one from the Baltimore College of Dental Surgery also.

Dr. Finney served as Assistant Demonstrator for six months, when he was made Demonstrator in Charge of the Infirmary.

In this capacity Dr. Finney served for ten years, and during that time did not miss a single day's attendance at College.

In all probability he has stood more hours over the operating chair than any man in the profession who has not been in practice more than forty-five years.

Outside of his professional work this active man has found time to dabble successfully in other affairs. For a long time he was Captain and Ordnance

Officer of the Fourth Regiment, M. N. G. He built, on his nerve and with his capital, the second apartment house erected in Baltimore, and today owns and controls over a hundred acres of undeveloped land in the city limits, within twenty minutes' ride of the City Hall.

It was through his energy and untiring efforts that the building now owned and occupied by the Baltimore College of Dental Surgery was purchased in 1914, and christened "Finney's Baby." An amusing cut was published in the annual of that year, showing the professor, wheeling a baby carriage with the College building in it.

In spite of Dr. Finney's manifold duties and responsibilities he was never too much occupied to take time to listen to the troubles of the students. He has helped and consoled hundreds of them, many of whom will gratefully carry with them the memory of his ever-ready sympathy and interest as long as they live.

Often it has been asked why the students always go to Dr. Finney with their troubles, and the answer is that he listens.

Having served the College and the profession for more than forty years, Dr. Finney felt justified in relinquishing his chair in the College in 1918 to attend to his many other interests without too greatly taxing his health.

When his resignation was received the Faculty honored him by electing him Professor Emeritus of Prosthetic Dentistry.

Professor Finney is a member of the Maryland State Dental Association, the Southern Dental Association, and the National Dental Association.

Dr. Finney is a Royal Arch Mason, having received that degree when but twenty-two years of age, and (last but not least) up to the present time, has remained a bachelor.

Farewell Alma Mater

Half in gladness we leave thee dear B. C. D. S.
And half with a pain we depart,
Where Alma Mater with knowledge expending
Made music on lip and in heart;
For we know that our school days are over,
There comes a call from the world so vast
And our staying together as in school days
Like dreams in sleep, is past.

We are animated by thoughts of trials
That we must face afar in the world,
Our thoughts are no longer of quitting
Our banners of duty are unfurled.
We pass from thee Alma Mater
To a station in life that is new,
We bid you dear friends and teachers
A long adieu.

May we enter the world as a worker
Like one that has played well the game,
With thoughts to make life easier for others
And bring honor to B. C. D. S.'s name.
We will work boldly and fearless
And look the world square in the face,
With our hand to the task never relinquishing
And battle to win in life's race.

THE Council passes upon all regulations affecting the Student Body and confers all grievances to the Faculty, there to be acted upon. It is one of the progressive steps taken at B. C. D. S. to bring the Student Body and the Faculty closer together, to regulate College customs and control the things vital to the students welfare.

This new phase in the history of the College has been found to be very invaluable, thereby making it a permanent organization.

The Council is composed of the Dean, Dr. Foster; four members of the Senior Class, two selected by him, and two elected by the Class; one man of the Sophomore Class and one from the Freshman Class, both selected by the Dean.

Class History 1919

WHEN we look back over the two years that separated us from our Freshman days, the time seems short. It might have been but yesterday that we gazed with reverence on the bared heads of Seniority, that we felt honored by the interest taken in us and the assistance given us by the Sophomores and had it not been for them in rushing the Freshman, we would have been at a loss. And it cannot have been so long since we donned our white coats to display our intelligence of Dentistry on the patrons of the Infirmary each day. To learn of the human body, by means of a knife and tweezers and Gray's Anatomy, we can look upon it as yesterday. All of these pleasant things of our college days can be cherished.

And now—the time is coming, and all too swiftly, when the three years of our united existence will be finished. If we could do it all over again, we should probably manage things a little differently, but we have tried to act wisely and according to the understanding we had. Our three years have brought us many friends, have given us greater opportunities, have reared our new and higher ideals. The B. C. D. S. that we are leaving is a bigger, broader, better and stronger B. C. D. S. than the one to which we first came, and we trust that we have had some little share in the bringing about of that increase. As we go out in the broader and professional life, may we always be worthy sons of an Alma Mater whose greatness and glory are only beginning to be realized; may we always be true to her spirit of loyalty, of honesty, of fair play!

Due to the advancing of the course in Dentistry from three to four years, these men were transferred at the time and are legally members of our Junior Class.

The adage of "There is strength in numbers," may not apply here, but this is a promising Senior Class of 1920, and to be sure, they are somewhat conceited.

Sophomore History

OUR green appearance has entirely faded and with a somewhat more dignified air we turn to a more closer view of Seniordom and try in every way to hold the bonds which keep us to our classmates and to old B. C. D. S.

Like all good things we came back (in the Fall) and with a vengeance. Ours was a hard task; for it was our not unpleasant duty to bend a most green bough from the simple curves of curious, innocent childhood to the firm erect lines of maturer growth. We succeeded! And we know the results of our labors will mean added honor to B. C. D. S.

While this daily laboring to make better our School we did not fail to perform those feats which were necessary for our reputation and growth. And so, on occasion, we would always make honor for ourselves in Theory, Mechanical Work, and some practical work.

We feel that we have yet more honor to make for ourselves and with a determination we expect to benefit by the mistakes of our Seniors Superior and make a record that will be envied by our predecessors and establish for ourselves a venerable record.

We feel that we have fulfilled all obligations that have been laid upon us; that we have been worthy of the trusts reposed upon us, and that '20 stands ready for the mantle of dignity soon to fall upon it with the full conviction that it shall be worn in a manner worthy of Upper-Classmen.

Freshman History

Place: A Dentist's Office. Date: 1961.

Characters.

DR. GEANIOUS.....An Inventive Dentist
MR. CURIUS.....A Searchafter Wisdom
DR. DOUGH.....Once a Patient

THE cloud of oblivion parts, and from its inmost recesses, the office of a dentist takes form. It grows brighter and brighter, still more distinct, until now we can readily make out its occupants and furnishings,—three men and innumerable prosthetic and operative appliances.

What is happening? Why are the two men looking so intently at the third, strapped tightly to his chair? Ah! Listen! One of them is speaking:

"Now, Mr. Curius, as soon as I have the retrospective mirror in position we will watch this old Practicioner pass through his college days again. But wait! Let me give him a few drops of this 'Retragression Vox', which will enable him to relate to us some of his past college life. There, now, I think we are ready. Sh-h-h!

"It was a bright sunshiny day, about the first of October, a day when all was glad, when alighting from the train, we found our way towards the Dean's Office. What a weird feeling went over us as we approached the desk to sign our names on paper which would link us with four years of study. Students were here, there, and everywhere, greeting, walking, running and shouting, but my verdant Freshman brothers took no part in the hilarity. Our strangeness and modesty prevented such a showing of spirit.

"The days passed quickly and uneventful, until loudly rang out in the corridor one day, 'All Freshmen Out!' 'Line Up!' 'Pass 'em Up!' I quaked along with my other classmen and spread myself for what was to come.

"Sometime later we held our first Class meeting and only again full of some more heart-throbbing events, fearing each minute the sound would be heard: 'Line Up!' Here we were given encouragement and took on a feeling of prominence, but could only retain it for a short duration.

"The Mirror has become misty, Doc, and the old man speaks no more.

"Patience, my dear, sir. He is simply passing over a space of uninteresting time. See? Now listen:

"Oh, yes, those intemperate Sophs! How they took on a feeling of false seniority which made them small in the displaying. How they would suffer to rush us, and strain their throats to bawl us out. We withstood it all, until there came a time to outgrow the ———.

"That's enough, Mr. Curius. It's quite a strain on his constitution to keep him under the spell.

"But he hasn't told us what college he attended, or in what year he graduated.

"That's easy. I should think you would know that. Without a doubt it was the Class of '22, which B. C. D. S. turned out."

The Harris-Hayden Odontological Society

Historical Sketch

THROUGH the efforts of our present Dean, Dr. Foster, this Society was formed February 5, 1908, at the old College Building, Franklin and Eutaw Streets, having for its purpose a promotion of fraternalism among the students and to discuss matters pertaining to the dental profession, better fitting each one for the various activities of the State and National Societies.

The name selected for the Society was in honor of the founders of the Baltimore College of Dental Surgery; namely: Chapin A. Harris and Horace H. Hayden, their teaching and knowledge of the dental profession being cherished yet by present-day practitioners.

Chapin A. Harris was born at Pompey, Onondago County, N. Y., in 1806. Acquiring the knowledge of Dentistry when quite young and for a while practicing in Ohio, he later came to Baltimore to become a pupil of Dr. Hayden. His first publication, and the first dental text book: Harris' Principles and Practice of Dentistry, was soon followed by his publication of the first dental dictionary.

Being very enthusiastic of opening an institution for the teaching of dentistry, he solicited the signatures of many prominent men to make an application for a charter from the State Legislature. This was granted February 1, 1840. The first Faculty meeting resulting in his being elected Dean. This was the foundation of the first dental school in the world, which since then and today is known as the Baltimore College of Dental Surgery. He died September 29, 1860.

Horace H. Hayden, one of the founders of the Baltimore College of Dental Surgery, was born October 13, 1769, at Windsor, Connecticut. As a result of his first visit to a dentist, Dr. Greenwood, of New York, he became deeply interested in the profession and came to Baltimore in 1800 to study. In recognition of his attainments, the Jefferson Medical College of Philadelphia, and the University of Maryland, in 1837, conferred on him the honorary degree of Doctor of Medicine.

In 1837-38, he began a course of lectures to the medical students, but was compelled to give it up, due to the uninterest taken in them.

The American Society of Dental Surgeons was organized by his help in 1840, being elected its first president.

With the help of his colleague, Dr. Harris, in 1839, they made a success of the first dental institution in the world. At the age of seventy-five years, he died January 26, 1844.

The meetings are held semi-monthly, but this year, due to the Government taking over the College, and prohibiting the Society's activity, there has been a lessening in its work. Since the disbanding of the Student Army Training Corps many interesting and profitable meetings have been held; in a way covering much of the time lost and still maintaining the standard which was intended. Some of the meetings enumerated will follow:

Meeting of January 23, 1919.

This being the first meeting held during the College Year of 1918-1919, was one of profound interest, and many profitable things were learned by the discussion of a paper by Dr. Hoffmeister, on the Forsythe Treatment of Root Canals. Dr. Foster, Dean, also gave an interesting talk on the purpose of the coming meetings.

Meeting of February 6, 1919.

A notable feature of the meeting was the interesting subject of Focal Infection, delivered by Dr. Duvall Atkins, of Baltimore, late of the United States Army, which pertained to the Medical standpoint. Dr. Hardy continued the subject from a Dental standpoint, which was instructive. Mr. Dunn, of the Class of '19, read a very interesting paper on the same subject.

Meeting of February 20, 1919.

The subject being, "Preventative and Curative Treatment of Focal Infection," was well handled by Mr. Anderson, of the Class of '19. A discussion of this subject was followed by Mr. Wells and Mr. Long, Class of '19, which deserves much mention.

As to the activity of this important factor in the welfare of the Student Body, the year cannot be termed successful, on account of the interference of the Student Army Training Corps. Nevertheless, the purpose was maintained throughout our time in the service and the pleasure given to us by some representatives of the Y. M. C. A. Army Workers, shall never be forgotten.

It is with profound interest that we hope to see a real interest taken in this important part of the students life next year. With all this we hope to be able to establish weekly meetings, hold regular Bible Study Classes, and to assist in the welfare of the student as has been maintained heretofore.

The Quitter

When you're lost in the wild, and you're scared as a child,
And death looks you bang in the eye,
And you're sore as a boil, it's according to Hoyle
To cock your revolver—and die.
But the code of a man says: "Fight all you can,"
And self-dissolution is barred;
In hunger and woe, Oh! it's easy to blow—
It's the hell-served-for-breakfast that's hard.
"You're sick of the game"—well, now, that's a shame;
You're young, you're brave, and you're bright.
"You've had a raw deal!" I know, but don't squeal;
Buck up, do you're damndest, and fight.
It's the plugging away that will win you the day,
So don't be a piker, old pard!
Just draw on your grit; it's so easy to quit;
It's keeping-your-chin-up that's hard.
It's easy to cry that you're beaten—and die;
It's easy to crawfish and crawl;
But to fight and to fight when hope's out of sight—
Why, that's the best game of them all!
And though you come out of each gruelling bout
All broken and beaten and scarred,
Just have one more try—it's easy to die;
It's the keeping-on-living that's hard.

Everyone turned and gazed at him
When he came back to town.
An overseas cap, jauntily
Was perched upon his crown.
Upon his arm a stripe of gold
Denoted foreign shores.
He surely must have done his bit
And fought in all the wars.
He bore his honors modestly,
No greater man than he.
Until 'twas found that he was in
The State S. A. T. C.

Prophecy

Another three years have past and the Class of 1919 is ready to combat with the trials of the world. We will never forget our beloved Faculty, who have guided us in all sincerity through the hardships that came before us during our stay at B. C. D. S. in pursuance of that coveted degree of D. D. S.

Let us now look into the spherical "Mystic Glass" of the future and see what our classmates are doing.

Anderson is president of the "G. M. Can" factory "Somewhere in Maryland," while "Gus" Arsenault is makng good as pianist at the Jefferson Theater in Portland, Me.

Batzle has made his fortune on an invention to kill Jersey mosquitoes.

Bernarbe and Paikowsky are jockeys at the Pimlico Race Track.

Black is happy with his wife and the "little Blacks" in Boston, Mass.

"Jack" Breth has opened a Dental Laboratory in Pennsylvania.

"Jimmie" Burns is taking care of a large parctice in New Bedford, Mass.

"Vic" Carey is Dean of Fordham University, New York.

Chauvin is running in opposition to Boutelle's second-hand dental supply depot. How did you do it, Chauvin?

Clements and "Brig" Young are starring in a vaudeville sketch entitled, "The Rube's Success."

Cormier is running a pool-room in Canada. Pay me, Cormier, pay me.

If one would chance to visit Milford, Mass., he would learn that Roy Curtin is Mayor. "Some Politician!"

"Morg" Davis is a traveling salesman, and is doing well selling books on "Crown and Bridgework" opposed to Dr. Ferguson's methods.

In New York City, "Bill" Day is wearing out shoes traveling his beat for the New York Police Force. He is a strong protector of the law, but always accepts his "grafts" on the side.

"Guy" Dennis has settled down for life, having re-enlisted in Uncle Sam's Navy. He has charge of all dental work on the U. S. S. Iowa.

People from all parts of the world come to Richmond, Va., to have bridge-work done by Dr. Dorset, the noted specialist.

"Tom" Dunn is traveling the United States reading his interesting papers on "The Method of Completing a Dental Education."

Fowler has succeeded Dr. Hardy and is now teaching physiology at B. C. D. S

Get your tickets for the Big Show for "Eddie" Gregory and "Eddie" Cotter are playing in B. F. Keith's Vaudeville, in a sketch entitled, "The Yanks Are At It Again."

"Have your fares ready, please," as Godburn is conductor on the electric cars in South Meriden, Conn.

George Hanna is night clerk in a "large" hotel in Bethel, Conn.

Prophecy—Cont.

Happenny has succeeded John McGraw, manager of the New York Giants Baseball Club.

Hernandez has returned to Porto Rico, where he is engaged in the banana business. Skin game, "kid," watch out as it is a slippery occupation.

Our old friend Hicks is a "waiter?" at the Baltimore Art School. Ask Emily, she knows.

In New Bedford, Mass., Kerwin is busily engaged as President of the First National Bank., while "Bill" Kinney is night watchman at the same bank.

Koontz was always interested in dentistry, but claims there was never enough money in it. He is now running a clothing store in Baltimore in opposition to Katz.

"Bob" Lamb has purchased the firm of Bartlett Hayward and is carrying on the "explosive" business successfully. "Bob" remarks that he should worry, as he is making Dough and Dynamite.

"Kid" Letourneau, true to his promise, married Rose, and now is happy with his wife and family in Fall River, Mass. Kid is a Specialist on seamless crowns and defies any dentist in the United States to make a crown equal to his.

"Jawn" Leydig may be seen at his daily post as traffic cop on the corner of Howard and Lexington Streets, Baltimore, Md.

Long is demonstrator of prosthetic dentistry at the University of North Carolina.

"Eddie" Magers has found the "Ideal Filling" which all dentists have been impatiently waiting for. He baffled the scientific world with his production, as it is a gold composition that can be inserted by the same method as an amalgam filling.

By gazing steady into the "Mystic glass of the Future" we can see Maxwell in Paris, France, where he is learning the latest "Jazz" steps.

McCrohan is a boxer of great fame. He is teaching the art in McCrohan's Hall, New Bedford, Mass.

"Tom" Mellor returned to London, England, and is now Dean of Mellor's Dental College. He is teaching the American ideas of dentistry to his English brothers.

Merrihew's art store is famous the world over. Framing is his specialty. Pictures of pretty poses is his hobby.

We all remember "Cy" Miller. Well, he is now in the printing business. Miller's College Classbooks are noted the world over

"Bill" Mills remained in Baltimore and soon after his graduation hired out as janitor at the Nurses' Home, connected with the Church Home and Infirmary, on Broadway.

Monash is running an advertising office in New York City. He always believed in "Quantity, not Quality."

"Jack" Mullen holds the title of Golf Champion in the Northern States.

Prophecy—Cont.

Naboa and Waxburg are working in government offices at Magnolia, Md. The "Duke", however, intends to return to Sweden in the near future.

"Eddie" Page purchased "The Harrisburg Telegraph," and is now producing all the news that is fit to print.

Quintana, having learned that Charlie Chaplin retired has entered the movies and may be seen on the screen in the various moving-picture theatres throughout the U. S. A.

C. C. Sharp is manager of a drug store in Rochester, N. Y.

Stinson entered the Clergy and hopes to succeed his father upon the latter's retirement.

Staples, artistic painter and designer, has painted the most difficult of all paintings, namely, that of two negroes heaving coal on a dark night.

Igartua is keeper of the wild animals in the zoo at Druid Hill Park, Baltimore, Md.

Turner has sold his practice in Gaffney, S. C., and is now engaged in tobacco raising, while Smith, out in Ohio, is working his Dad's farm.

"Dick" Sharp married "the best girl in the world" and is happily situated somewhere in Western Canada.

Grady B. Wells is a model for men's clothing at "The Fashion Shop," in Baltimore.

Aviator Donald Page has recently arranged to fly the first passenger plane across the continent. We all wish you the best of luck, Page.

Speiser is manager of a shipbuilding concern in Bridgeport, Conn.

When buying stocks one should not forget our old friend, Stegman, who is now a stock-broker on Wall Street, New York.

Hudson opened a barber shop and is carrying on the business quite successfully. Close clips are given special attention.

Foley is out in "Hawaii" where he is studying music on the various Hawaiian instruments.

Winton married and is the father of six children. He calls them the "Winton Six."

Spiegelglass has made a name for himself with the late discoveries in Orthodontia appliances.

Harry Fine has given up his practice of dentistry and is now making faces in the Ingersoll Watch Factory.

Evans is "Professor of the Piano" at the New York Conservatory of Music.

Crash! Bang! Look what has happened, our "Mystic Glass of the Future" has fallen to the floor and is broken into a thousand pieces. Therefore, as it is beyond repair the prophecy of the Class of 1919 must come to an end. All with malice towards none and with best wishes and success to all, the curtain of the '19 Class slowly falls.

Prophet.

...Thesis...

SUBJECT: The technic of the insertion of an approximal gold filling in a left upper central incisor tooth, mesial surface and not involving the incisal angle.

The patient presented with an irregular cavity in a left upper central and after a thorough prophylaxis of the teeth over which I would ligature the rubber dam, and paying special attention to removing all debris from the gingival margin, I sprayed the mouth with an antiseptic solution. The dam was then ligatured over the left upper central and lateral, placing a napkin under the lower edge of the dam to prevent any excess saliva from escaping in that direction and thus adding further annoyance to the uncomfortable appliance.

A careful study of the cavity was then made as to the extension necessary for the prevention of decay, resistance, form, accessibility and retention of the filling to be inserted. After all undermined edges of enamel were broken down with chisels; the softened and decayed dentin removed, with spoons and excavators, the cavity was wiped out with alcohol and thoroughly dried for further study, as to its preparation. With an inverted cone bur, I removed the remaining decayed tooth structure and made a flat exial wall of sound dentin; the wall giving a form of resistance. With chisels the margins of the cavity were extended mesio-labially and mesic-lingually until the enamel margins were supported by sound dentin; and extended to a point outside of a possible recurrence of decay, requiring a much greater extension lingually than labially. In this way a more and better means of access for the insertion of the filling was obtained. With a bur I made a horizontal gingival margin and with an inverted cone bur made a flat horizontal floor or gingival wall; the gingivo-axial line angle being made sharp at the same time making the axio-labial and axio-lingual line angles sharp and clear. With the same bur I made a groove completely around the cavity, along the gingivo-axial, axio-labial, and axio-lingual line angles, making a slight swaying motion of the bur to give additional retention at the axio-gingiva-lingual and axio-gingivo-labial point angles. The same procedure was followed at the incisal angle. The cavity now presented a flat axial wall, bevelled margins, slight grooves and extra retaining points, which extended beyond a possible recurrence of decay.

Cohesive gold was packed in the axio-gingivo-lingual and labial point angles and then covering the gingival wall of the cavity; the next step being with the aid of hand pressure and automatic mallet to pack the gold on the lingual surface to the incisal angle, later being filled and from thence to the labial surface, from where it was packed. With the aid of a hand burnisher, sand-paper and cuttle fish discs the filling was worked from the rough appearance to the polishing stage and in doing this care was taken not to touch the contact point with the cuttle fish discs. Rubber discs incorporated with pumice made the gold smooth; removing all scratches and elevations. To finish rouge applied to a felt wheel was used.

The last procedure is the removal of the rubber dam, the massaging of the gums to cause circulation and the applying of a mouth wash to give refreshness.

Knock Down

Some persons are born humorous, some acquire humor, and some have to be humored. If you belong to either of the first two classes you will appreciate what is to follow; if you belong to the last, forget that grouch for a while and be a little optimistic. It doesn't pay to be a pessimist. We aren't. Whenever we see a page of humor or near humor we wade right in with the hope of seeing at least one joke that is not of the cold storage variety.

Did you ever stop to think that a joke is a wonderful thing? Each one has about steen different authors and appears in as many different forms. Some jokes are made unconsciously; others make the hearer unconscious. A would-be humorist pulls a hot one unintentionally and immediately thinks he is a second Mark Twain. We made an original joke ourselves only last week and yesterday discovered that old Chris. Columbus had sprung the same thing on Garibaldi as they were crossing the Delaware in the Mayflower. That only goes to show that history always repeats itself. However, it didn't faze us in the least. No one can ever be a great success without opposition. We have had plenty of it.

The old saying has it "Laugh and grow fat." When Tiny was a little boy he was very scrawny. Pa happened to think of the aforementioned saying and subscribed at once for the Homely Ladies' Journal. Tiny thus developed himself physically and also acquired a rare sense of humor, that is to say, fondness of rare jokes.

We commend the following pages to your tender care. Deal gently with the children of our imaginations and if you see something which pleases you, just mention it to your friends—we may be one of them. If, however, our fanciful creations do not satisfy your most exclusive tastes—walk right in.

The Year in Review

By Gertrude.

IN writing all great books it is usually customary to have a pleasant ending. So, dear reader, this, the greatest annual ever published this year or ever published by any past, present or future Sophomore Class. This book records in a very simple way the events of what seem to be a very successful year. Now, of course, you understand, as I have said before, that this book is published by the Sophomore Class. No, not all the Sophomores, for as yet I have never seen more than three in our composing office at one time. Materia, Medically speaking, some of them seem to have an idiosyncrasy for work. We are yet to experience the thrills and little anxieties of being a dignified Senior. The all-wise Seniors who are much older in the game than we, and who are soon to take their final departure, some of them, will soon look back over the sands of time to envy us who are enjoying the sweet pleasures of college days. However, we are just a notch above the plaster stage of the Freshmen, and we can look back to recall that "them was the happiest days." Those beautiful days when we were initiated into the mysteries and secrets of melting wax and whipping plaster to take out the bubbles. Ah, Father Time, thou art a great procrastinator!

A Dental College is a wonderful thing, this one most especially, and I am so proud of the fact that I have the opportunity to witness its growth year by year without any apparent financial support. Each year is always the best year and each annual is always the best annual, and I can truthfully say that this has been no exception. The Freshman Class has increased greatly. There were nearly five more than last year. I say nearly because some of them were not all there, speaking of the mental part, of course.

The College has grown not only in numbers, but also in spirits. However, it is thought by many that the Vodka movement in Russia will cause the spirits to eventually subside, and the inevitable date of July 1st is drawing nearer each day.

The S. A. T. C. was a howling success. The boys howled from day light till dark; many of them acting fishy and many suffering from caffeine auto-intoxication. The sleeping quarters and possibilites of study were unexcelled anywhere. The boys received their discharges very reluctantly, and some were seen to even shed tears. The men were well-trained and made a beautiful sight. I say sight instead of spectacle, because it is more appropriate. I say they were a beautiful spectacle, I mean sight, marching down Howard Street on the day the armistice was signed, headed by the military band and above the din and roar could be heard the martial strains of "Hail, hail the gang's all here," which brings back memories of the days I used to march the lock-step in Sing Sing. Quite a few of them were actually in step, much to the surprise of the Commander. As I said elsewhere the music was wonderful, it caused my sympathetic system to be wrought upon to the fullest extent. Many of our brave laddies were seen to stagger under the spirits of the day, as everything with swinging doors was closed promptly at 12 noon for the express benefit of the S. A. T. C.

Reports from the Infirmary show that at least five of the eighty Seniors turned in their specimen work on time, which was a surprise indeed, and they were complimented by their instructors.

I wish to compliment the College on its victorious football season which has just ended. It has been a most successful year, no games being lost, and without a single injury to anyone. It was too bad that the head-linesman was killed in the game with the Reform School for the Irish of Highlandtown, but he should have stepped aside when the Dental student threw the brick.

Again I wish to compliment our present Student Council for its philanthropic work. We are so glad to note that the Freshmen are not so noisy in the lecture hall. Now, of course, you understand that the students never worry about the Student Council for very few have been made wise to the secret as to who they are. It is so complicated that I shall not attempt to describe its mechanism in this brief narrative.

Among the many improvements of the year is the ridding of the sinks of debris in the prosthetic laboratory, and the thorough cleansing and renovating of the lockers also. The halls have been given over entirely by the Student Council to the Student Body for smoking rooms, which was a great treat to all. Also the cellar has been given over to the Student Body as a recreation room, a baby grand piano having been installed. Everyone has a chance to display his talent in this music emporium.

Now that winter is waning and spring is here, soon the campus will be dotted with boys playing volley ball and tennis, while here and there will be seen studious laddies under the old oak trees getting ready for the final exams. The grass is very beautiful on the campus, except the north side where the entrenchments were made for the S. A. T. C. last fall.

Soon June will be here, the month of blushing brides and sweet graduate girls. I will have the extreme pleasure of shaking hands for the last time with some of the present members of the Senior Class. I say some because there are likely to be a few to visit us next October for a sojourn. It reminds me of the times I used to go to one of the instructors and tell him that I was back again. I usually was. Back in my work. I never could get bones.

As I have said before, this has been a great year, in fact, a very short year, as February had only twenty-eight days this year. May this College see in the years to come many more such years.

STRANDED IN A FAR COUNTRY

Reminiscences

He sat alone in his study,
The Dentist of three score ten.
Thinking of all that had happened,
In his journey here among men.

At times his brow was lined with care;
Then this would flit away,
And a pleasing smile would cross his lips,
As he thought of his College Days.

He thought of the time when a Freshman,
He had entered the B. C. D. S.
Of all the trials that had crossed his path;
And he murmured, "Those days were the best."

As he thought of the girls at the Folly's
He started and looked dole
And wondered if his wife had read
The thoughts of his inmost soul.

'Twas then his frame began to heave and shape
His wife sprang up in fear
And 'phoned the village doctor
That her husband was acting queer.

" 'Tis nothing, wife," the Dentist spoke,
"I just thought," he said with groans,
"Of the lectures I took from McCleary,
Those infernal damnable B-O-N-E-S.

C. H. M., '21.

"HULLO!"

When you see a man in woe,
Walk straight up and say "Hullo!"
Say "Hullo!" and "How d'ye do?
How's the world been using you?"
Slap the fellow on his back,
Bring your hand down with a whack;
Waltz straight up and don't go slow,
Shake his hand and say "Hullo!"

Is he clothed in rags? Oh, ho!
Walk straight up and say "Hullo!"
Rags are but a cotton roll,
Just for wrapping up a soul;
And a soul is worth a true
Hale and hearty "How d'ye do?"
Don't wait for the crowd to go;
Walk straight up and say "Hullo!"

When big vessels meet, they say,
They salute and sail away.
Just the same as you and me,
Lonely ships upon the sea,
Each one sailing his own jog
For a port beyond the fog;
Let your speaking-trumpet blow,
Lift your horn and cry "Hullo!"

Say "Hullo!" and "How d'ye do?"
Other folks are good as you.
When you leave your house of clay,
Wandering in the far-away;
When you travel through the strange
Country far beyond the range,
Then the souls you've cheered will know
Who you be, and say "Hullo!"

SENIORS.

Pinnacles of wisdom—wow!
Seniors with your knitted brow,
Of your wisdom we all know,
Quizzing you is like a show.
If an epileptic came to you
Tell us Seniors, what you'd do,
Yank the tooth, or tell him nay?
"Send him elsewhere" did you say?
Good! And since you seem so wise,
Tell us how to recognize,
Epileptics when they call.
Answer comes with foolish drawl,
"By hydrophobia of the mouth."

SOPHOMORES.

Sophomores, with your haughty pride,
What you don't know you can't hide,
Do not think you know it all
Or your pride will have a fall.
Grandma Rogers makes a hit,
As authority he is it,
Anything there is to show,
Run to Rogers—he won't know.

FRESHMEN.

Line up! Line up! is all you hear,
Freshies get it all the year,
Pity not the fresh and green,
Treat 'em rough and treat 'em mean;
Tho they cry in sad, sad tones,
That—and with it, bones, bones, bones.

Fresh Poet.

Dr. Hoffmeister's Returns

New theories concerning drug preparation and administration are stirring up the scientific world. We quote some of the most important ones made possible by the mid-year exam.:

Antagonist—One drug given after another.

Antiseptic—A drug given externally when a disease is present or liable to occur.

Isotonic—A chemical drug prepared to swallow bacteria, provided that the bacteria do not get wise to the presence of the enemy drug.

There are two kinds of Incompatibility:

(a) Chemical.
(b) Physical.
(c) Mechanical.
(d) Hand-made.
(e) Home-made.
(f) Artificial.

Emulsion—A gas given hypodermically when idiosyncrasy is in danger.

It is reported that after three rational alterations originating in the theories mentioned herein, that Materia Medica, as well as Chemistry, shall be based on utterly new foundations.

READ BEFORE THE HARRIS-HAYDEN ODONTOLOGICAL SOCIETY JULY 4, 1919, By D. W. PAGE, OF STRATFORD-ON-CONN.

History of Patient:

Age 20, male, single, came under my observation Oct. 30, 1917. His mother died of acute alcoholism at the age of 6½ years. His father, a Methodist minister, addicted to cascarets was mortified to death while yet an infant. As a young boy the patient was perfectly healthy. At the age of nine he contracted house maid's knees; later was a victim of warts, corns, lipoma and hypertrophy of the gums from which he had uneventful recovery.

General Examination:

Patient was well-developed, as far as I could determine, being bright for his years, weighing nearly 400 lbs. and having recently graduated from the Reform School. He showed scars on the left wall of the pancrease, stomatitis of the hard palate and carries of the salivary lands; complained that he could not sleep because of falling hair; had to use bed to sleep on; ate as many as three times a day; talked through his nose, due to cold feet.

Treatment and Cause of Disease:

Patient was placed in chair and given systemic treatment of Nitric Acid and Glycerine, to which he responded poorly. Under castor oil and hair tonic anaesthetic, I removed an impacted third molar, portion of maxilla which would not function properly, due to paralysis of the saritorius muscle. Two days later I reopened the wound to recover my foot engine and rubber dam clamp. Two days later I was obliged to reopen the wound to recover cuspidor which had been forgotten in the absence of my nurse. Was unable to find my Ford which was missing at the same time. Patient was injected with mange cure and furniture polish, making an uneventful recovery and being alive up to the time of his death, six days after operation.

Post-Mortem:

After death patient's pockets were searched carefully and $49.65 recovered. I consider the operation a tremendous success. However, it was very unfortunate that I did not see the patient sooner.

Question: What treatment should be used for persistent putrescency?

Answer: Do not scare the bacteria; allow them to remain in utter ignorance of the ghostly disaster that awaits them. Quietly, but carefully, slip upon them, so as to seal them in with Lieutenant Davis' Silver Nitrate Preparation, which in turn will generate a gas, bleach the teeth a beautiful white, causing asphyxiation to the little animals. Allow the carcass of the dead bugs to remain as a reminder to their future posterity so that they may not plan a similar invasion.

Football

IF no account were taken of the 1918 Football Team within these pages, then this book would be woefully incomplete and an almost failure. Prior to 1918 our moleskin-clad warriors had clashed with only some of the neighboring schools. These schools were principally reform schools for boys. And quite a few of our players had already had experiences in reform schools before coming to Baltimore. As I have said elsewhere the fame of our football teams had not reached far, the principal schools on our elaborate schedule being the Baltimore City Reform School. The Dental Students' Industrial Home, and the much-touted team of the Maryland State (Penitentiary). On our Eastern trip we penetrated as far as Highlandtown and Catonsville. But the fame of our gridiron heroes has been augmented and it shines in resplendent glory in the athletic heavens.

The football season ended gloriously and this year is one of which we may all be proud. When Captain Grimm led his trusty team on the frozen field at Druid Hill Park in the initial game of the season no little anxiety was felt, for our team as the real strength of the Dirty Dozen was little known, as this was their first and last game of the season. But after our men had made 15 goals in six minutes, and the most of the Dirty Dozen were laying prostrate on the ground, having participated in too many Chesterfields and ginger ales prior to the game, it was seen that it was a walk-away for our men. The score of the game was tabulated one week later and found to be 320 to 0.5 in favor of the winners. Many of the opponents were wounded in the game, but were quietly dispatched to the Maryland General Hospital. This was a glorious beginning for our boys.

To summarize, the whole year was one of victories. Pikesville bushwackers came and went like the shadows of a summer evening. Johns Hopkins Prep. School was encountered and likewise bit the dust. The Men's Glee Club of Peabody Institute were also an easy number. But harder days were ahead that would try our pigskin chasers to the utmost. Then came the crucial test, our old rivals, the inmates of the College of Physicians and Veterinary Surgeons. This proved to be the hardest game of the season and the struggle was long and bitter. It was the championship game and everything was at stake. One by one our faithful heroes were led to the side lines on account of wounds received at the hands of the rugged embryo horse doctors, until only our wily captain was left to fight to the last. But what could one brave player do against fifteen rough-necks and four officials too? It looked very gloomy for us, but like a thunderbolt out of a cloudless sky our faithful captain seized the pigskin in his trusty left arm, he hurled it to the spheroid toward the enemy's goal post and then like a flash and before his bewildered opponents had time to recover their wits he had circled both ends, hurdled sixteen men and the four officials, made a run of seventy-five yards and caught the ball as it fell over the enemy's goal line, thus scoring a touchdown and a field goal in a single play. This caused a riot and it was with much difficulty that the police checked the enraged mob that had crowded the bleachers at Mt. Royal Field. May our future games be as successful and as uneventful.

The Spanish Flu

When your heels hit hard, and your head feels queer;
And your brain whirls around like the foam of beer,
And your shin-bones knock, and your back is broke,
And your feet are dry and they need a soak,
And your eyes are dim and they wish to cry,
Your nostrils squeak and you think you'll die,
You're skeered you have it, you go to bed,
You count the minutes till you're dead,
You pray to God, to see you through,
You've got her kid, you've got the flu.
When your eyes roll up and your belt falls in,
And you feel as mean as any old thing,
You think of life as one dismal curse,
You wish you'd never been born, or worse,
Your slats all ache, your taste is gone,
You wish for booze, or wine—no song,
Your toes turn up, your tongue is flat,
You sweat, you smell like a sewer rat,
But Dr. says he'll pull you through,
He will like hell, it's the Spanish Flu.
What it is like, I'll tell true
You depend on me for I've been through,
It's misery, aching and despair
Wrecks your system from toe to hair,
Your teeth will chatter, your blood will burn,
You're just in Hades waiting your turn,
It fills your loft with groans and moans,
It fills your mind, your gall, your bones,
Your friends—all distant, wish you well,
They call it flu—I call it Hell.

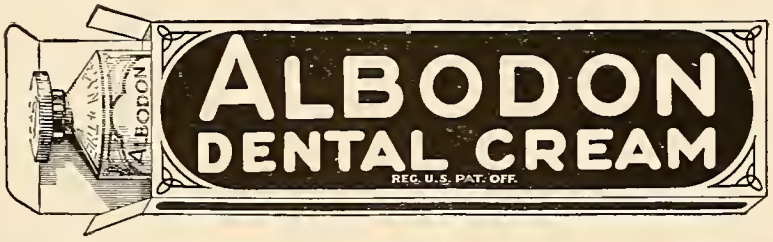
WHAT A DIFFERENCE!

The discriminating dentist will not assume that dentifrices are "all alike." In common with all things, they differ — differ in formula, in type, in perfection of manufacture.



ALBODON DENTAL CREAM has always had the distinction of being preferred by those dentists who go to the trouble to make comparisons. Will you do it?

Good positions for all who qualify. A real opportunity for any man who has a natural aptitude for using tools. No book study; just practical work. No charge for tools or Materials.
Mechanical dentistry is a pleasant and dignified profession. The time required to master this work is very short as compared with regular dental courses. On the other hand, many of the best dentists recommend this course in Mechanical Dentistry to all who are preparing to practice Surgical Dentistry later.

"The Mirror"

Baltimore College of Dental Surgery

Baltimore, Maryland

May 15th, 1918

The Read-Taylor Co.,
South and Lombard Sts.,
Baltimore, Md.

Dear Sirs:

It gives me great pleasure to advise you that the 1918 "Mirror" has been recognized by the entire Faculty and student body of the B. C. D. S. as beyond doubt the finest "Mirror" ever published, and it was greatly through your valuable assistance that such a book was possible, as the manuscript furnished you was practically the same as used in previous years—Senior write-ups, histories, and so on.

Your display and artistic arrangement of the copy was far superior to any I have ever seen, and you certainly gave us the best quality of everything on which to build our publication. The assistance you gave our Editor-in-Chief and myself in overcoming the many difficulties helped considerably toward making our annual supreme over all the others.

I could have had the "Mirror" published at a lower price than yours, but after thorough investigation and comparison, I found the style of printing of other concerns to be inferior to that of "The Read-Taylor Co."

The book was delivered to us on contract time, and you carried out your end of the contract to the letter in every particular.

Wishing you luck in securing next year's contract, which you certainly merit by your high standard of quality, and heartily recommending your concern to any Editorial Staff desiring an annual embodying the best there is in printing, with kind regards, I am

Very truly yours,

Howard W. Mellin

Business Manager.
